THE ASSASSIN.—A theatrical gentleman of this city informs us that in the early part of 186-, during an engagement of J. Wilkes Booth at McVicker's Theater (theater-goers cannot but recollect … especially in Richard III …) … What a glorious … for a man to immortalize himself by killing Lincoln.

What good will that do? he was asked.

He then quoted these lines:

The … that fired the Ephesian dome
Outlives in fame the pious fool who reared it.

Well, who was that ambitious youth—what was his name? was then asked.

That I know not, Booth replied.

Then where's the fame you speak of?

This our informant tells us nonplussed him.

From this it would seem that the assassin had the commission of this horrible crime on his mind for at least two or three years.

This J. Wilkes Booth is a son of the distinguished actor Junius Brutus Booth, and a younger brother of Junius Brutus Booth, Jr., and of Edwin Booth, who also are actors now living. He is a young man of slender form, nervous and wiry. He has often rendered himself … in theatrical roles by the expression of his disloyal sentiments. He was an admirer of Brutus the assassin of Cæsar, Charlotte Corday, the assassin of Marat, Joan of Arc and that class of historical characters. He was … and sprees of intoxication and was generally regarded among actors as a reckless and erratic young fellow, though a tragedian of superior ability, originality and promise. His brothers are intensely loyal, especially Edwin.—Chicago Evening Journal.

ANDREW JOHNSON ON SLAVERY.—At a recent meeting in Tennessee on the adoption of the new Constitution abolishing slavery, Andrew Johnson spoke as follows:

The mighty principle of human rights and liberty has … against monopoly and slavery. … the tyrant's rod, and set the captive free. Yes gentlemen, on yesterday you sounded the death knell of negro aristocracy and performed the funeral obsequies of that thing called slavery. You have opened the grave and let the carcass down, and all that remains is for you to seal the pit on the 22d of February—the anniversary of the day which gave birth to the Father of his Country. … I feel a heartfelt gratitude that I have lived to see it done and that I have been permitted to perform my little part in this great drama. The blow has been struck and slavery lies prostrate … insincere … ignorant … hypocritical, nefarious … aristocracy has tumbled to the ground. … last learned that an ignorant corrupt aristocracy must go down.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY [illegible]

Let Crime be Punished

[illegible] There was a set of pseudo philanthropists who heard the lamentations of [illegible] There was an unhealthy feeling abroad which of old inexorably demanded the punishment of the transgressor. A species of false humanity had insinuated itself into the minds of men. The salutary recompense of blood for blood was forgotten. Crime was no longer crime. Its perpetrator was simply an unfortunate being towards whom there was often a sentimental feeling of sympathy. [illegible] most heinous crimes. All this was [illegible] positive wilful depravity; it was rather the evil consequence of the blending of the emotions of pity [illegible] indifference to the stern requirements of justice and law.

Nor is this false philanthropism yet wholly done away. A reluctance to comply with the demands of justice yet remains. That mawkish sensibility which had its origin in a misdirected sympathy for those whose lives were justly forfeit has not yet been wholly eradicated. But it must be cast out. When crime is committed it must be called crime. Criminals must not be misnamed unfortunate men. Treason must be called treason, and the guilty of it must receive the decisive appellation of traitors. There must be a return to the old doctrine of an eye for an eye, a tooth, a life for a life. There are offenses which smell to heaven. Such must receive no palliation. There are criminals in the land, some of them now in custody, who are guilty of acts the horrid atrocity of which can never be fully known. They have done more than transgress the laws of the Nation they endeavored to destroy. The revolting deeds they have done were aimed at humanity and civilization. The people of America will prove recreant to their duty to their suffering country and to the world if they do not so far regain an abhorrence of wrong as to administer condign punishment to the malefactors whose enormities are greater than were ever before committed in the face of Heaven.

New York to Portland

A few days ago we published an article wherein we urged the policy of putting a line of suitable ocean steamers that should be owned in Oregon on the route from San Francisco to Portland. Should it be deemed advisable by those interested that this be done, we are persuaded that the result would prove of incalculable advantage to our State. There is however another project that merits attention and deserves discussion in connection with the efforts which we hope soon to see made for the purpose of establishing a trade that shall be a source of profit instead of a detriment to the interests of Oregon.

While our capitalists and business men are casting about to hit on the best course to pursue, it will not be amiss to suggest the propriety of considering whether the opening of a direct trade between New York and Oregon would not be very advantageous. It is certain that sufficient quantities of goods to amount to several cargoes destined finally for Oregon, are shipped every three months from the East to San Francisco. Now, while San Francisco is a city of such great commercial importance that we may not expect to become free from the controlling influence which she exerts over the entire trade of this coast, we may at least ask the question whether Oregon cannot, in great part, ship direct from the East, and whether the adoption of such a course would not be of essential advantage in promoting the numerous interests of our State.

It will matter little for our present purposes whether the vessels are owned in Oregon or not. If the merchants of this State have goods to ship from the East there will be no difficulty in engaging the vessels to carry them. Cargoes from the East can be delivered here for a sum not appreciably greater than is paid for their transportation to San Francisco. To make the scheme successful, it is only necessary to procure a correspondence of action among merchants and business men. For reasons not now necessary to be enumerated it will sometimes be found that those who buy in the San Francisco market are able to sell here a trifle cheaper than they who have their goods direct from New York, but this is not the general rule, and when it does occur it may easily be traced to transient and local causes and to influences which have their origin in the unsettled state of things incident to the war. As the war is now over such fluctuations will become less common or will entirely cease.

In this enterprise the merchants of Salem, Dalles and other places, as well as those of Portland could join. If all who have goods to be carried in the Columbia river would enter into a combination for the purpose of having them come direct we feel sure that such a procedure would be found to produce satisfactory results.

Messrs. Knapp, Burrell & Co. of this city, [illegible] to dispatch during the coming fall through their correspondent in New York several vessels for the Columbia river. [illegible] means to try the new plan. Oregon should seize the first opportunity that is presented to enter into an independent career in respect to her trade. The great need of this State is to get its trade clear of the embarrassments it suffers by passing through so many hands. Anything that will accomplish this result, whether it be effected by shipping direct from New York or by the purchase of steamers to run to San Francisco, is worthy of consideration.

GWIN BELIEVERS [illegible] Democrat [illegible] there were many of them who set hopes [illegible] Gwin had entirely abandoned the ducal territory of Sonora will experience that elation which only oppressed Democrats can realize as they hear that his High Mightiness has again returned. The White Man's Country is not yet deprived of its regal head! Exult, O! Democrats! [illegible] ye now have an Asylum in that blessed country where tyrants can never reach you. [illegible] thither [illegible] shall never enter. [illegible] leave of your [illegible] that you can escape from your present thralldom and enter into that Paradise where only Democrats can come.

[illegible] Sixteen months [illegible]

JEFF DAVIS' LAST PROCLAMATION. When the rebels were driven out of Richmond by the Union armies Jeff Davis took the earliest opportunity to effect his escape and fled far in advance of Lee and his broken legions. While thus at the top of his speed he seized the occasion to issue another proclamation. It is characterized by all the false hood which the rebels had long used to sustain their cause. Virginia was not to be abandoned then. And through the cloud of his misfortune the prophetic soul of Jeff could see the certainty of future success. The rebels had not the courage to yield like a man.

The General in Chief found it necessary to make such movements of his troops as to uncover the capital. It would be unwise to conceal the moral and material injury to our cause resulting from the occupation of our Capital by the enemy. [illegible] army be. For many months the largest and finest army of the Confederacy under the command of a leader whose [illegible] the troops and the people has been greatly trammeled by the necessity of keeping constant watch over the approaches to the capital, and has been forced to forego more than one opportunity for promising enterprises. [illegible] We have now entered upon a new phase of the struggle. Relieved from the necessity of guarding particular points, our army will be free to move [illegible] and far from his base. Let us but will it and we are free. Animated by that confidence in spirit and fortitude which never yet failed me I announce to you fellow countrymen that it is my purpose to maintain your cause with my whole heart and soul; that I will never consent to abandon to the enemy [illegible] glorious recent history [illegible]

FACTS ACROSS THE BLUE MOUNTAINS.—Mr. J. R. [illegible] has furnished us with a letter from his [illegible] J. M. Strowbridge, Esq., dated [illegible] on the 17th instant, which says: "I left [illegible] this morning, arriving here [illegible]. The [illegible] community should know that the [illegible] have not failed to make their regular trips, so [illegible]. The road is very good and has been passable the entire [illegible]. Messrs. Meacham, of this place, [illegible] a great deal of money on the [illegible] of the best mountain roads in the country. The [illegible] Company's line of coaches from Walla Walla have been unable to make regular trips, and it was correctly [illegible] on the 4th of May, when I was in [illegible] and travelers could not get through [illegible] route, which is erroneous. [illegible] of delay is possible, and [illegible] before I left San Francisco [illegible] the particulars as they exist [illegible] may follow me. The stories [illegible] to the part of the [illegible] should be made public, not only for the [illegible] to the proper guide [illegible] in this region, that they [illegible] without detention, from Umatilla [illegible] Boise [illegible]."

ATTEMPT TO COMMIT SUICIDE.—A person whose name it is not essential to mention, yesterday made a deliberate attempt to commit suicide, and was only prevented [illegible] by the close watch of Marshal [illegible] upon his movements. The man appears to [illegible]. The [illegible], having the regular [illegible] to have been long attended by [illegible] of the eyes [illegible] hypochondria [illegible] his gloomy life [illegible] to destroy it. He had started up Washington [illegible], and the Marshal being informed of [illegible] watched him until he [illegible]. He was next seen walking down [illegible] street followed to the Ferry landing, where [illegible] a few moments and looking into the stream, he [illegible] and went some distance into the water. [illegible] off his coat in [illegible] to prevent the plunge [illegible] as effectual as it would have been [illegible] safely landed in and [illegible]. He was taken charge [illegible], and probably will be sent to the [illegible].

[illegible].—Hon. J. W. Nesmith, United States Senator from Oregon, may be expected upon the arrival of the [illegible] at Oregon City this afternoon. Mr. Nesmith [illegible] a warm and energetic supporter of Mr. Lincoln's measures for putting down the rebellion [illegible] favorable to the most vigorous war measures, and was willing to go further, even, in that direction than the [illegible]. He may sometimes [illegible] with the administration [illegible] to virtue's side." With such able and [illegible] Williams and Nesmith in the Senate, and [illegible] in the House, the youthful State [illegible] compare favorably with any other in the Union.

THE MARKETS OF CALIFORNIA.—The recent "tumble" in the [illegible] produce at San Francisco is thus commented upon by the California Farmer: "We cannot sympathize with those who have been induced to hold for higher prices. The lesson, though an expensive one, will prove an advantage for the future. Those who [illegible] and hold for extreme rates [illegible]. From Oregon we have near [illegible] sacks of flour, which is reported to be the last [illegible] in which flour is reported [illegible] we are led to believe that [illegible] will soon form an important item of [illegible] of whom it may concern."

THE CIRCUS.—The performances at the pavilion opposite [illegible] offered, are worthy of patronage. The [illegible] dogs, monkeys, and ponies have attracted the [illegible] of thousands in all the principal cities of the [illegible] and Europe, the equestrian and gymnastic [illegible] are also good. The troupe will give an entertainment here this evening, also on Thursday evening. On Thursday afternoon, for the benefit of [illegible] those who cannot attend an evening performance, a special exhibition will be given. The troupe will visit various portions of the State, stopping at Oregon City, Silverton, Salem, Buttlerille, Albany, Corvallis, [illegible], Lafayette, Forest Grove, Hillsboro, and [illegible].

Wells, Fargo & Co.	$130,000
[illegible] & Tilton	15,000
Other parties	22,000
[illegible]	$167,000

[illegible].—The Spectator of San Francisco, says, in publishing the [illegible] of the years States were settled, admitted into the Union, &c.: "Few readers can be aware, until they [illegible] Accession to test the fact, how much labor is [illegible] by such a table. If 'history is poetry,' as [illegible] a true poet himself forcibly remarks, that here [illegible] personified." Oregon is set down as being admitted into the Union by this piece of "personified poetry" in 1864. Badly for the labor such a table as that [illegible], Oregon was admitted in the year '59.

THE RISING WATERS.—For twenty four hours previous [illegible] o'clock on Sunday, the Columbia had risen two feet [illegible], and the Mountaineer of yesterday says it [illegible] rising rapidly on Monday, with the chances [illegible] grand flooding out. At this point the rise [illegible] by the gauge at the O. S. N. Company's warehouse [illegible] yesterday evening shown to be three feet [illegible] above the mark of Saturday, and still slowly [illegible].

[illegible].—The supposed counterfeit "green [illegible]" found upon the person of a man from Vancouver [illegible] some three months since in this city for [illegible], to the amount of $[illegible] upon Messrs. [illegible], sent to New York for inspection, has been [illegible] with "counterfeit" stamped upon its face [illegible] and may be seen at the show window of [illegible] & Co., at the Postoffice. A bet of $20 has been [illegible] in favor of—the winner by this transaction.

[illegible].—By the arrival of the John H. Couch last [illegible] we learn that a man named John Dravers, employed by A. S. Abernethy, Esq., at Oak Point, [illegible] a few days since, where he was working, [illegible] before assistance reached him. He was [illegible] 21 years of age, and leaves a wife and child [illegible] San Francisco.

[illegible] IN FLOUR.—A porter engaged at Robertson's [illegible] "Commission house in stowing away Flour, [illegible] accidentally buried underneath a pile of [illegible] which fell over upon him. His groans brought [illegible] and he was soon rescued, fortunately [illegible] broken [illegible] caused his case to require medical skill [illegible] pain.

[illegible] WORTH HAVING.—Wells, Fargo & Co. [illegible] put up in their office a clock, manufactured [illegible] Seth Thomas Co., of Plymouth, Connecticut, [illegible] not only an excellent time piece, but indicates [illegible] of the week, day of the month, and month of the [illegible]. The only adjusting to be done [illegible] is to wind it up once in eight days [illegible] alone," and it does its work.

[illegible] A FRESH.—Those gentlemen appear determined [illegible] up for themselves a handsome trade in the boot, [illegible] clothing line, by making it for the best advantage [illegible] the public to spend their few dollars with them [illegible] like to see business places so crowded as it [illegible] "at the Bay"—when people go [illegible] in such numbers that the Chief of Police is compelled to detail an officer at the store doors to preserve [illegible]. And such may be the case with the above firm, [illegible] continue to hold out inducements.

[illegible] FELLOW.—The Red Bluff Independent "puts up [illegible] lip" because the departure of a freight from [illegible] that point was not heralded to the world [illegible] and says the operator there is "interested in [illegible] other" town.

A WOMAN ON A BENDER.—A woman of the [illegible], keeper of a bawdy house on Second street, was [illegible] by officer Saunders last evening, and gave bonds for her appearance at Recorder's Court this morning, on charge of disorderly conduct, and kicking up a muss [illegible].

[illegible] if there be a nuisance more deserving of attention in this city, than that of the hundreds, thousands, [illegible] or billions of dogs, we should like to see [illegible] it comes in.

[illegible].—All young men are respectfully requested [illegible] in attendance this evening at the Front street [illegible], for the purpose of organizing the Zouave Cadets.

Legal Tender notes sold yesterday at [illegible] cents.

When we consider the number of human beings that die with Consumption every year, the importance of a medicine that will cure all pulmonary affections that tend to this complaint, and even to arrest the decrease after it has indicated its presence in the System, must be admitted to be beyond all estimate. This wonderful power is claimed to be possessed by Allen's Lung Balsam. For sale by SMITH & DAVIS, Agents, Portland, Oregon.

☞ Also by the Dealers in Family Medicines, generally.

Brandreth's Pills. Their Qualities.—In small and repeated doses the effect of Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills is to increase the activity of the secreting and excreting organs. The action of the largest becomes more liquid and contains a larger proportion of bile. The operation of this extraordinary medicine does not stop here, the membranes of the lungs, of the eyes, and all the membranes become moister; the skin becomes damper and at the same time becomes warm. So that Brandreth's Pills seem to vitalize and promote excretions generally. In large doses, say from five to ten Pills, they act as a powerful purgative, clearing the bowels first of their contents and then acting upon the internal organs, cleansing them of slime, mucus, or any concretions not required for their healthy action. Thus the action of Brandreth's Pills is what is required to bring about that state in all the organs which results in their full restoration to health. The blood vessels, as well as the blood, are thus restored to perfect purity and vigor.

THE FLORENCE

Sewing Machines

ARE NOW UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE BY FAR

THE MOST SIMPLY CONSTRUCTED

Easily Managed,

HANDSOMELY FURNISHED

and Durable

FAMILY SEWING MACHINE,

NOW IN USE.

Possessing the Most Desirable Points of all other First-Class Machines, it Surpasses them by the Simplicity of its Construction, and the Ease and Facility with which it Performs a Greater Variety of Work than all other Machines Combined.

IT HEMS, FELLS, GATHERS, BRAIDS, QUILTS, Cords, Tucks and Sews on a Ruffle at the same time. We claim for the FLORENCE the following advantages over any and all Sewing Machines:

1st. It makes four different stitches, the lock, knot, double lock and double knot, on one and the same Machine. Each stitch being alike on both sides of the fabric.

2d. It has the reversible feed motion, which enables the operator, by simply turning a thumb screw, to have the work run either to the right or left, to stay any part of the seam, or fasten the ends of seams, without turning the fabric.

3d. Changing the length of stitch, and from one kind of stitch to another, can readily be done while the Machine is in motion.

4th. Every stitch is perfect in itself, making the seam secure and uniform.

5th. It is almost noiseless and can be used where quiet is necessary.

6th. Its motions are all positive; there are no springs to get out of order, and its simplicity enables the most inexperienced to operate it.

7th. It does not soil the dress of the operator, as all its machinery is on the top of the table.

8th. It is the most rapid sewer in the world, making five stitches to each revolution.

9th. Its stitch is the wonder of all, because of its combined elasticity, strength and beauty.

10th. It does the heaviest or finest work with equal facility, without change of tension or machinery.

11th. Every Machine has one of Johnson's patent hemmers attached (the right to use which we control), enabling the operator to turn any width of hem desired.

12th. There is no other Machine which will do so large a range of work as the FLORENCE.

13th. It does not require finer thread on the under side than [illegible] the upper.

14th. The needle is more easily adjusted than in any other Machine.

15th. It will sew across the heaviest seams, or from one to more thicknesses of cloth, without change of tension or breaking of thread.

16th. It is fully protected and licensed by Elias Howe, Jr., and his Associates, and our own Letters Patent.

17th. To avoid the strain on the eyes, head, partial, chest and lungs and fatiguing care, heretofore necessary in a large portion of work done on Sewing Machines, we would furnish the Machine with "Barnum's Self-Sewer," which guides the work itself, and is of local addition in value, especially to inexperienced operators.

18th. While possessing the above and many other advantages, the FLORENCE is sold at corresponding prices with other first class Machines.

19th. We refrain from publishing the highly complimentary notices of the Press which we have been favored, and place our Machine before the public, believing that an intelligent examination of its merits will fully substantiate all that we have claimed for it, and justify us in saying we now make, that it is the best Sewing Machine in the world.

20th. We Warrant every Machine to be all that we claim for it, and will give a written warranty if required.

21st. Agents wanted in all the principal cities and towns on the Pacific Coast. With a small investment of capital a profitable business can soon be established. For Circulars and Samples of Sewing, address

CURED THOUSANDS!

And it will Cure You!

"A Cough is generally the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is

WHAT KILLED [illegible]

Dr. Hall, in his "Journal of Health," speaking of the death of Washington Irving, asks the above question, and adds: "He might have remained with us for long years to come, had it not been for advice, kindly intended, no doubt, but given in thoughtlessness and reckless ignorance.

He Had a Cold!

Which, by some injudicious prescription, had been converted into asthma." Let me say to Dr. Hall that that "prescription" was not

The Decisive Action of the War

[illegible] the capture of Petersburg and Richmond [illegible]

[illegible] Sheridan on the day previous. One made the other doubly, trebly, quadruply valuable and rendered certain the fall of the city. On Sunday while Mahone was being stormed [illegible] the rear of the army [illegible] cut the right wing entirely off, so that upon Mahone's capture and the fracture of the rebel line in three [illegible] the army was cut in three pieces [illegible] Lee saw when these things came to pass that all was lost [illegible] whether his army would get to Richmond he said it would do no good. He seemed depressed [illegible] Virginia. He saw that his army must save itself as best it could. So the extreme right, which Sheridan had cut off, suddenly disappeared in a general skedaddle. The piece cut off by the capture of Mahone scattered. A portion [illegible] for the Appomattox, and succeeded in crossing that stream by means of a pontoon train some ten or fifteen miles above Petersburg, while the rest, being had crossed, could not get across, and fled up the river on its south bank, Sheridan still pursuing and pushing them, capturing more prisoners at every step. The third portion, consisting of those soldiers in the works on the rebel left of Mahone in the Petersburg defences, escaped through that city to Richmond.

THE PANIC AT RICHMOND—THE EVACUATION

The preparations for evacuation, even in Richmond were so quietly conducted that the people were taken by surprise. Immediately on receipt of Lee's intimation that he was beaten there began among the officials at Richmond a scurry and panic. Still the majority of the people were in the dark and remained till night. The gold and silver coin belonging to the Louisiana and Richmond banks, and recently appropriated by the Confederate Congress was run down to the Danville train with hot haste. Then the programme for the departure of the officers was arranged. A number of trains were to leave during the evening; still there was not room for all who thought it desirable to get away. Davis was to depart at 7 o'clock p. m. Breckinridge elected to go off on horseback with the last of the army on Monday morning. On Sunday evening a meeting was held for consultation, at which Gen. Smith attempted to show there was no danger, and almost succeeded in deceiving his hearers. He was better informed however, afterwards and ran off on horseback during the night. The Council after much discussion, determined to destroy all the whisky in the city, to prevent disorder. After dark the Council held another conference, and this time being assured by the Secretary of War that the Confederate pickets would be withdrawn from the Richmond front at three o'clock on Monday morning, and that it was calculated that the city would be evacuated about night, it was determined that a committee of prominent citizens should attend the Mayor with a flag of truce to the intermediate line of fortifications, and that there he might hand over the city to the general commanding the Army of the James. Judge Lyons, Judge Meredith and several members of the Council attended the Mayor. The letter prepared by the Mayor to be handed to the Union general was as follows:

RICHMOND, Monday, April 3, 186[illegible]

To the General Commanding United States Army in front of Richmond:

GENERAL: The army of the Confederate Government having abandoned the city of Richmond, I respectfully request that you will take possession of it with an organized force to preserve order and protect the women and children and property.

Respectfully, &c.,
JOSEPH MAYO, Mayor.

THE CONFLAGRATION OF THE CITY

The order for the destruction of the four principal tobacco warehouses, issued by General Ewell, were at first likely to meet with resistance, but the Confederate authorities had guarded against such an event by holding in the city, to execute their barbarous work, two large battalions of Southern troops, every man of whom hated Virginia and Virginians, and longed for nothing more than to see the city a ruin. But before the troops detailed to fire the city had received their orders some amateur incendiary had fired a canal boat loaded with meat, in the dock, near Mayo's bridge. This boat fired two others, which burnt the bridge over the dock and cut off the retreat of five or six thousand Confederates. This was the second fire—the first being the burning of public papers in Ninth street, early Sunday night. About this time the Confederate gunboat Patrick Henry, lying in the river off Rocketts, was fired, and soon after the order was issued to apply the torch to the warehouses. The order was executed with alacrity; nor did the ruffians confine themselves to the buildings in question. Getting a taste of incendiarism, the congenial work seemed to please them so much that they ran around setting fire to every house in the vicinity of the warehouses. The incendiaries at Shockoe fired every house at Shockoe Slip, including Mr. DeVoss's warehouse, where was stored a quantity of French tobacco. There was a guard of French local troops over this building, but they were driven off by the Confederates and threatened with death if they attempted to extinguish the flames. The torch was also applied to all the buildings recently in Confederate occupation, from the Tredegar works on the canal above the city to the navy yard at Rocketts, a distance of two miles, including the laboratory, artillery shops, arsenals, Franklin paper mill, Petersburg depot, Danville depot, all the commissary and quartermaster buildings on and near Fourteenth street, Ralston's foundry and other buildings and localities which have heretofore been mentioned. By 10 o'clock a. m. nearly the whole city south of Main street, between Eighth and Fifteenth streets, and Twentieth and Twenty-third street was one great sheet of flame.

DISORDERLY FLIGHT OF THE REBEL ARMY

Two divisions, Kershaw's and [illegible], with several light batteries, were holding the lines below the city. Gradually during the night the troops were withdrawn by brigades. [illegible] movements were orderly enough, but toward morning the retreat became a wild flight. It was one of the ghastliest sights of that awful night to see long lines of men filing like ants by streets, [illegible] their forms much [illegible] by the glare of the burning and [illegible] fires that already began to glow. This train of fugitives poured on [illegible] Main street down Fourteenth street until broad daylight [illegible] Before the last passed over the bridge Richmond had [illegible] in flames [illegible] It was part of the programme that Gary's cavalry should be the last to retreat [illegible] lines below Richmond. They were [illegible] that in the city about daylight and [illegible] stragglers and citizens that they could lay hands on and hurry them off with the army. [illegible] the plan was frustrated by the rapid advance of the Union forces. Gary passed up Main street not five minutes ahead of the Union advance [illegible] so far from stragglers [illegible] Mayo's bridge and the Danville bridge were then all ablaze. Gary crossed the dock by the bridge at the southern terminus of Seventeenth street and then set fire to [illegible] Two citizens, William J. Brown and Robert Allen, [illegible] in the neighborhood [illegible] the bridge and extinguished the flames before they had gained headway. While engaged [illegible] neither of them were struck [illegible] away over Mayo's bridge, which was burning from end to end, and almost in the point of falling in.

THE CASUALTIES BY THE FIRE

Large numbers were burnt by the conflagration and the number of identities will never be known [illegible] children [illegible] and infirm persons and many persons under the influence of the liquor drunk [illegible]

[illegible] the previous night [illegible] were [illegible] by the shell explosions at the arsenal [illegible]

[illegible] President [illegible] the steps [illegible]

[illegible] The President and party entered the mansion where they remained for half an hour [illegible] when a headquarters carriage [illegible] Mr. Lincoln with his son [illegible] Admiral Porter, General Weitzel and General Devens got into [illegible] through the principal streets [illegible] followed by General Weitzel and staff [illegible] Old men thanked God in a very boisterous manner and old women shouted [illegible] the pavement as high as they had ever done at a big [illegible] revival. But when the President passed through the Capitol yard it was [illegible] people [illegible] Washington Monument and the Capitol [illegible] were one mass of humanity [illegible] catch a glimpse of him.

Every one declares that Richmond never before presented such a spectacle [illegible] closed that those who participated in this [illegible] were mainly negroes. There were many white [illegible] the great [illegible] of Americans citizens of African descent. Those that lived in the finest houses [illegible] their stoops [illegible] The Secesh inhabitants still had some hope for their tumbling [illegible]

THE LIBBY

The horrors of the Libby are not yet wholly past; it is a horrible place even now. Now a few [illegible] officers and men confined there at different periods during the war have visited it since [illegible] of shuddering experiences in the presence of [illegible] facts. Its arrangements are all simple. A child could find its way through the building without losing itself—a square three-storied brick warehouse, with a low conical roof, the interior divided into very large barn-like apartments for the accommodation of large companies. That is not quite all, for these apartments are so peculiar in [illegible] that the word barn is not quite significant. A barn is a respectable [illegible] usually clean [illegible] generally let into it. Its ceilings are high; it is pleasant to stroll into it to watch the cattle at their feed, to throw one's self upon the fragrant hay, to sink into a reverie with a wisp of grass between one's lips, to sleep, perchance to dream. In all these regards a barn has an advantage over the Libby, for the Libby is neither clean nor well ventilated, nor are its surroundings high, nor is it pleasant in any degree whatever. Its exterior alone is so solid and cheerless as to cause an involuntary sinking of the heart. It looks like a great cruel cage [illegible] The windows are small, narrow and [illegible] barred. The walls are battered and [illegible] ruins and broken down shanties surround it. At a distance the canal [illegible] The guards there delightfully sportsmanlike creatures who kept watch for a "pop" at the miserable wretches who were so unfortunate as to appear at the windows had a goodly space to patrol about all the four sides, a dull walk certainly. They needed the stimulus of an occasional shot to keep up spirits which otherwise would certainly have flagged.

The interior of the Libby now, according to a charming poetical justice, well stocked with rebel prisoners, is, while not half as bad as it was, still very bad. [illegible] rubbing brush which has been diligently used by the pleased [illegible] since their confinement, has not yet sufficed to remove all the filth from the floors and walls. The air, though plentifully admitted through all the windows, has not yet got the upper hand [illegible] which must be smelt to be appreciated, but never to be described. The offices and cells are on the first floor, the drawing room and large apartments before alluded to on the [illegible] The stairs are not of the most complete description, and are thickly caked over with dirt, a beneficent contrivance of the humane warden to prevent the prisoners [illegible] from slipping. The [illegible] stench as your head emerges from the level of the next floor [illegible] pit of the stomach which is simply disgusting and horrible.

The sink, open and reeking, stands at one end of the [illegible] The floor around is a puddle of [illegible] who are strewn along the remainder of the floor across the entire breadth of the warehouse [illegible] sitting and standing [illegible] standing the frequent [illegible] place has received the cracks between the planks and [illegible] the wall are still [illegible] All [illegible] A partition divides the prison, which was formerly all one warehouse, into two departments on both floors.
